Claims 1-103 are drawn to methods and compositions for treating neoplasia disorders in a mammal employing enhanced combination of a cyclooxygenase-2 inhibitor and an antineoplastic agent.

Applicants state on page 11, lines 14-17 that ... "present invention administered in combination at a low dose, that is, at a dose lower than has been conventionally used in clinical situations." Further, the antineoplastic agents are classified in different subclass in class 514 and class 424. For example, the antineoplastic agent, doxorubicin is classified in class 514, subclass 34, paclitaxel is classified in class 514, subclass 449 while cisplatin is classified in class 424, subclass 649. Applicants are, therefore required to elect a single enhanced combination of one cyclooxygenase-2 inhibitor with one antineoplastic agent for examination on the merits.

The several inventions above are independent and distinct, each from the other, as they have acquired a separate status in the art of treating as a separate subject matter for inventive effect and require independent searches. It is noted that a reference to one enhanced combination of drugs would not be a reference to another enhanced combination of drugs under 35 U.S.C. 103. Further, the claims read on a multitude of enhanced combinations of drugs which would require many field of searches that would be an undue burden on the Examiner. Therefore, restriction for examination purposes is proper.

Applicants are required to make a provisional election even though this requirement is traversed.
